schools-and the disposition seems to be growing among the people to let the women have that. There are more women candidates for county superintendent on the Republican ticket throughout the state this year than was ever known before. At the rate the "disease" is spreading it will not be over five years until the women will claim that office as theirs exclusively. Two years ago there were fewer than a dozen women nominated for county superia-tendent over the state, and not that many were elected. The Republican state commiwere elected. The Republican state committee has received returns from sixty Republican county conventions and they show that women have captured fifteen county superintendent nominations. There are forty-five counties yet to hear from, and it is estimated that the women will get that the czarina is so emphatically opposed to it indicates that, in Russia at least, it must be rather prevalent. Of the few American ladies who smoke, the majority will be found to have brought back the habit from Europe, where it is possible to form and practice it in very good society. Why women don't smoke a great deal more than they do is rather a puzzling question. If tobacco is as good a thing as the consumption of it indicates, there is no obvious reason why men should have a monopoly of it. Perhaps women's indifference to it is one more sign of their superiority; or possibly fashion, which has so much to answer for, has some things, and this among them, to its credit.
